REVIEWS

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS

FOREWORD

The lineage of the Bancroft families is the work of the Rev. Joseph W. Bancroft, B. A., born at Kingston (now Granville), Vermont, in 1825; died at Hastings, Michigan, in 1903. He was for many years Rector of Emmanuel P. E. Church of that city and during the later years of his life Diocesan Missionary under the personal direction of the Right Rev. G. D. Gillespie, D. D., Bishop of Western Michigan. He was a man endowed with a studious mind, quiet disposition, marked by extreme modesty, but whatever his hands found to do, was done with great care and thoroughness, and in the same orderly manner that characterized his whole life. He gathered together the traditions and historical facts relating to his family from its beginning in America to the date of his demise. And probably there was no one better qualified to perform the task, as he had close and intimate knowledge of the history of his branch of the family through personal acquaintance with all those mentioned in this work from his great-grandfather, Sergeant James Bancroft, to the time of his decease. Of course, his early records were obtained from old family records, town records of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont and early colonial histories of New England, which leads to the conclusion that his records can be accepted as being authentic and reliable. We have undertaken to arrange and continue the work of Mr. Bancroft, using his notes and memoranda, which came into possession of his niece, Mrs. Clark, some years after his death. We are indebted to numerous Bancroft descendants for facts relating to the work which he did not have, and we wish to extend our thanks to all such persons. Doubtless some errors will be found. It would be surprising if there were none. Care has been used, however, in the preparation of this work and authorities have been stated so that we hope all interested readers will be helped and not confused by what they find here.

Dated, Elma, N. Y., February 10, 1932.

Myron Henry Clark.

LINEAGE OF BANCROFT FAMILY

"Epigrams and Epitaphs," by Thomas Bancroft, published in London 1630, contains an epitaph on his father and mother, who were buried at Swarkstone Church, on the Trent, near Derby; also the following on brother John:

"You sold your land the lighter hence to go to foreign coasts; yet, fate would have, you did ne'er New England reach, but went with them that journey toward New Jerusalem."

There is a record of one John Barcrofts, wife Jane, who arrived at Lynn, Mass., in the ship James, June 12th, 1632. (This may be a slip of the pen for Bancroft.) Lynn records, 1638, one hundred acres of land were granted to widow Bancroft.

Tradition Written Out in the Year 1784

"There were two brothers with their families came from England where the Bancroft Academy now stands: one of said brothers died on his passage or soon after his arrival in this country, but had several children and his widow married a man, who took her and her children into Connecticut where that family settled. The other, Thomas by name, settled at Lynn End (now Lynnfield, Mass.), married Elizabeth Metcalf and died in 1691."

THE ELDER BRANCH OF THE FAMILY

Second Generation

The identity of this deceased brother is not absolutely established, but he is supposed to have been the elder brother and his name John. His children are supposed to have been these:

- i. THOMAS BANCROFT, who married Margaret Wright Dec. 8, 1653, having descendants in Windsor, Ct., Grandville, Mass., Grandville, O., and elsewhere. The San Francisco Bancrofts, Hubert Howe and A. L. are of this ancestral line.
- ii. JOHN BANCROFT, who married at Windsor, Ct., Hannah Duper or Draper, Dec. 3, 1650. Their descendants at Windsor, Ct., Westfield, Mass., Berlin, N. Y., and elsewhere.
- iii. ANNA BANCROFT, who married John Griffin of Simsbury, Ct., May 13, 1647. They had ten children. There is evidence that these three were brothers and sisters.

Note: With regard to what is designated as the third generation (being adults who came from England, and the second being children who came with their parents).

The sons of LIEUT. THOMAS BANCROFT, who grew up and left children were three: Thomas Bancroft, the first child; John, the fifth child, and Ebenezer, the ninth child.

Geographically, the descendants of Thomas are the Reading, Mass., branch of the family, (of which is George Bancroft, historian, whose line is from the said Thomas, through son, Samuel; grandson, Samuel; great-grandson, the Rev. Aaron Bancroft, to great-great-grandson, George Bancroft.

The descendants of John Bancroft are of the original "Lynn" (afterward Lynnfield) branch. And those of Ebenezer Bancroft are of the "Tyngsboro" branch. At present perhaps more of the descendants of John Bancroft are found in New England and Canada than either of the other branches.

SECOND GENERATION

The identity of the younger brother, Thomas Bancroft, is undoubtedly reliable.

LIEUT. THOMAS BANCROFT, born England about 1622, lived at Dedham and Lynnfield, Mass. He married Alice Bacon of Dedham Jan. 31, 1647. She died in February, 1648, as also her infant son Thomas. He married second, Elizabeth Metcalf of Dedham, daughter of Michael Metcalf, one of the staunchest of puritans. Their children were: 1, Thomas; 2, Elizabeth; 3, John; 4, Elizabeth; 5, John; 6, Sarah; 7, Ralph; 8, Sarah; 9, Ebenezer; 10, Mary. Numbers 2, 3, 6 and 7 died in childhood.

ELIZABETH BANCROFT married Joseph Brown.

SARAH BANCROFT married John Woodward.

Lieut. Thomas Bancroft was buried at Wakefield, Mass. Either he or his son, Thomas Bancroft, is mentioned in Mathers Magnolia in 1690 as saving the Garrison from Indians at Exeter, N. H. See also page 281, Morse and Parish History of New England.

THIRD GENERATION

EBENEZER BANCROFT, son of Lieut. Thomas and Elizabeth Bancroft, was born at Lynnfield, Mass., April 26, 1667, died at, married Abagal Easton May 19, 1692. Their children were:

- i. Abagal Bancroft, married John Hartshorn of Reading, Mass.
- ii. Sarah Bancroft married Joseph Trow of Marblehead, Mass.
- iii. Ebenezer Bancroft, Jr. Has descendants living.
- iv. Mehitable Bancroft married Jonathan Wellman.
- v. James Bancroft died in his 20th year.
- vi. Patience Bancroft married Samuel Gowing.
- vii. Timothy Bancroft married Elizabeth Farewell and moved to Dunstable (now Tyngsboro), Mass.
- viii. Lois Bancroft married Samuel Parson of Reading, Mass.

It may be noted that of the three families springing from Lieut. Thomas Bancroft, that of Thomas is geographically the Reading branch. That of John is the original Lynn (afterwards Lynnfield), Mass., branch and that of Ebenezer is the Tyngsboro, Mass., branch.

FOURTH GENERATION

TIMOTHY BANCROFT, son of Ebenezer and Abagal Bancroft his wife, born Dec. 14, 1710, died, married Elizabeth Farewell.

FIFTH GENERATION

JAMES (Sergeant) BANCROFT, son of Timothy and Elizabeth Farewell Bancroft, his wife, born at Tyngsboro, Mass., Oct. 27, 1745, died at Montpelier, Vt., Mar. 2, 1832; married Lucy Whitney in 1771, who was born in Dunstable (now Tyngsboro), Mass. June 1, 1753, died at Montpelier, Vt., May 22, 1840.

Her father was of a party attacked by the Indians; wounded and left for dead on the field. He rallied and having secured an Indian blanket, was lying down by a stream. His best friend, mistaking him for an Indian, shot him. She used to relate his frequent visits to her when a child, holding her on his lap and weeping over his mistake.

Sergeant James Bancroft removed from Dunstable, Mass., prior to the Revolution settling at Nonadock No. 6, afterwards Parkersfield and Nelson, N. H., where his name occurs in the minutes of the meeting of the Proprietors as early as 1773 and frequently thereafter, indicating that he was one of the original settlers, a person of prominence and a land owner.

On April 21, 1775, when the Lexington alarm reached Parkersfield, he was one of the twenty-seven patriots who, under Lieutenant Abijah Brown, marched to join the American forces at Cambridge. In April, 1776, he signed the Association pledging life and property to the defense of the liberties of the colonies, against the aggressions of the British Government.

On Sept. 17, 1776, he was elected by his fellow citizens a member of the Committee of Safety, and also became recruiting officer. He also served as Sergeant of the Company commanded by Capt. John Mellin, from Col. Enoch Hale's Regiment, which marched from Fitzwilliam, N. H., and adjacent towns to reinforce the garrison at Ticonderoga on the alarm of January, 1777; and also served in Capt. James Lewis' Company, in Col. Enoch Hale's Regiment of Volunteers, which marched from the state of New Hampshire and joined the Continental Army in Rhode Island in August, 1777. He was chairman of the committee chosen in 1777 to elect Representatives to the General Court of New Hampshire for Parkersfield. His name appears on the stone tablet erected at Nelson, N. H., on the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the first settlement of the town and which commemorates the services and sacrifices of the patriots and soldiers of the town in the Revolution. (His brother, Timothy Bancroft, born at Dunstable, Mass., July 15, 1759, served as a soldier in the Massachusetts Militia from Tyngsboro and later resided in the town of Nelson, N. H. His name is also cut on the Tablet.

In the United States census of 1790, New Hampshire section, he is recorded as a resident of Parkersfield (Nelson), N. H., and is head of a household composed of himself, wife, three sons under 16 years of age and three daughters.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —

That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.

Prudence, in such a case, would dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, we have suffered the longest continuance of a Government under a King, whose character and conduct have been such as to excite the indignation of the whole People.

But when a long train of abuses, usurpations, and oppressive exactions, by a King, has excited the indignation of the whole People, it is their duty to throw off such Government, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.

Among the number of these abuses and usurpations, which have appeared in the course of the late King's reign, are the following: —

1. That he has refused his assent to certain Laws, which have passed the British Parliament, and which were the just and equitable claims of the Colonies.
2. That he has dissolved the British Parliament, and has refused to call another.
3. That he has refused to assent to certain Laws, which have passed the British Parliament, and which were the just and equitable claims of the Colonies.
4. That he has refused to assent to certain Laws, which have passed the British Parliament, and which were the just and equitable claims of the Colonies.
5. That he has refused to assent to certain Laws, which have passed the British Parliament, and which were the just and equitable claims of the Colonies.
